

Alvechurch Community Choir
Newsletter 30 April 2018

Thank you, Laurence and Dave for our final rehearsal before Droitwich on Sunday. We managed to sing all of the songs and we are now ready to go! There have been some changes to the running order and songs so a new file is attached. If you have printed copies, please check that you have the right songs and in the right order (hints of Morecombe and Wise there!)

To confirm the arrangements, we are singing at 4pm. Please arrive early as parking can be difficult, and wear choir colours as usual (any combination of black, red and white)

The next event will be Sue and Roger's wedding on 19th May. The wedding is at 2:30 and we've been asked to be there by 2:10, again wearing choir colours please. The parking around the church is needed for the guests so please park away from the church and walk up. For now, the songs are in the current songs file, but hopefully I will get the order of service in time to send out a wedding song file before our next rehearsal on 14th May. Please can everyone who has signed up for the wedding try to attend on 14th May as this is our only rehearsal for that.

We welcomed Graham back last night but he had some sad news about Martin. He had been planning to return to choir last night after a long absence, but he fell yesterday and injured his hip so is back in hospital.

Mary has been unwell recently so she was not able to join us last evening, everyone wished her well and we hope to see her soon.

Laurence had an update from Mike – Hannah will be starting her treatment this afternoon which will continue for some months.

Our love and prayers go out to Hannah, Mary and Martin as they continue their treatment and recovery.

There is no rehearsal on 7th May so we will be back in the village hall on 14th May. Good luck to everyone going to Droitwich on Sunday.
